The King was in the corner knit Drinking rum and honey;
The Queen was in the kitchen Scrubbing clothes for money.
The Queen got tired of waiting For the King to bring more clothes,
So she popped into the house bazar
And rapped him on the nose.

In the Market For a WHEAT DRILL

Then Our "New Peoria" Is What You Want

It has perfect working discs, fitted with dust proof chilled bearings, single draw bars that will not gather trash, staggered spoke wheels with 7-inch hub and 3-inch tires, continuous rear bar with truss rod to support seat and keep drill from sagging, direct pressure in rear of disc; a feature we claim will make this drill work perfectly in any land suitable for sowing grain and where other drills cannot be operated. A seat in center of drill convenient to lever is also furnished. Drop in and let us show you what this drill can do, and furnish you with the names of a score of satisfied users. One feature of our drill that puts it in a class by itself and makes it superior to all other drills on the market is the "Peoria Disc Shoe." You won't find the disc shoe on any other press drill on earth, the Peoria people have that feature cinched and they are going to hang on to it. If you want to know why we can grow more wheat to the acre after this drill than any other with the same amount of grain sown, come in and let us explain to you the
"New Peoria Disc Shoe Drill."

CORN AND TOBACCO
Crops of Kentucky This Year Worth $100,000,000

A big improvement is noted in the corn and tobacco crops of Kentucky, according to the September report of Commissioner of Agriculture Newman.

Corn is 92.8% as compared with 84.5% last August. Dark tobacco is 81.6% and Burley 87.6%, a big increase.
These crops bring in $88,000,000 of the $110,000,000 average value of Kentucky crops.

cases.

DRUNKEN HOODLUMS

In Trouble For Smashing Windows
From C. and O. Trains

Brooksville Cor. Augusta Chronicle.
Detective Simmons and Hurlb of the C. & O., were here Monday, having in charge John Tucker of Foster, charged with malicious destruction of property.

About 2 o'clock last Saturday morning, Tucker and a companion by the name of Dixie Fite, both of Foster, were on a west bound freight train, and when they reached Wellsburg they began bombarding the depot and telegraph tower with coal, as well as throwing at an occasional dwelling as they passed. "Pluck" Reed, who was on duty in the tower at the time, was kept busy dodging the flying lumps of coal.

Both Fite and Tucker were loaded with "boozie," both inside and out, and seemed determined to do all the damage possible. The C. & O. officers went to Foster after the two young men, but Fite had evidently heard of their coming, decamping for Ohio.

Tucker, who lives back of Foster several miles, was not so lucky, the officers finding him in bed. He was tried before Judge Gibson, being fined $5 and cost, in all about $15, and will likely board the amount out with the county.

An effort will be made to apprehend Fite, who is considered the ring-leader in the affair.

It has been the custom for the past two or three years for a lot of drunken hoodlums to board freight trains and throw coal indicriminately as they ride along the road, and an effort will be made to put a stop to the practice, at least in this county.

OLD SOLDIERS

Probably the Last Big Reunion

is the Day

The Tenth Kentucky Cavalry will hold the fiftieth anniversary of their enlistment here on September 18th, 1912, in conjunction with the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry, which celebrated its jubilee anniversary last year.

An effort is being made by the citizens of Maysville to give these old veterans the time of their lives by holding a two days' celebration.

The program, it is understood, will be ample to give plenty of entertainment to all who may attend.

A general invitation is to be extended to a veterans.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JAMES S. SHERMAN.

FOR CONGRESS,
HON. HARRY BAILEY.

If you want to help ruin the prosperity of your country give a dollar to the Democratic campaign fund.

Some say that Armageddon is "on the other side of Jordan," and others that it is a boat landing on Salt River.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Democrats have not yet answered the question what shall become of the factories that are nailed up under a tariff for revenue only?

Henry Watterson predicts that Bryan and Wilson will come to blows. There is nothing that bores a Kentucky editor like too much harmony.

Occasionally during a Roosevelt demonstration Mr. Perkins must be in danger of forgetting himself and waving a check book instead of a pocket handkerchief.

When James R. Garfield teaches treason to the form of government to which his great father added glory and for which he died, what claim has James R. Garfield for public support?

It is charged that the twenty "insurgent" Republicans in the House who voted to repass the wool bill over the President's veto, felt that they could safely do this as they come from States where there is little wool grown or manufactured. If this is the fact they need to be reminded that they are in Congress as representatives of the United States and not merely of single states and districts.

ADULLAM, NOT ARMAGEDDON.

The third-term candidate is a bit "off" in his biblics. It is not Armageddon, but Adullam that he is thinking of. See I. Samuel xlii: 2.

"And every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was discontented, gathered themselves unto him (David, at the cave of Adullam)."

It is surprising to find so well read a person as the Colonel blundering as to the name of the place where the Israelitish soreheads foregathered.—New York Sun.

THE THIRD TERMERS IN WASHINGTON.

A few days ago The Blade called attention to the fact that in the Michigan primaries, which had just occurred, the Republicans had cast nearly all the votes, the Democrats coming in as a poor second and the third termers as a poorer third.

On Saturday primary elections were held in the state of Washington and there a like result appeared. In this case the third termers cast but five per cent of the state's total vote.

Can it be that Democrats are furnishing a large portion of the third termers' crowds?

The Michigan and Washington votes seem today so.

The Washington Post makes this observation: In this three-cornered race, backed as he is by the party that polled one and a quarter million more votes than its opponent, Mr. Taft starts with an advantage that is very substantial. It will take more than noise and excitement to beat him.

The Paris Temps declares that Roosevelt stands on a platform, "cleverly and admirably constructed," and that those who fail to take seriously his chances in the campaign are making a "profound mistake." That paper is also predicting a tariff war with the United States, and is a prophet of evil generally.

President Taft's veto of the wool bill was no surprise to anybody. The bill was prepared by Democrats and "Insurgents" in a way to challenge disapproval and to put the President "in a hole." It is possible that before this campaign is over Mr. Taft's opponents may find themselves deposited in the cavity they had dug for him.

We have received the following note from a prominent manufacturer: "I received your various papers regarding the tariff, for which I am much obliged. The manufacturers of this country have made a mistake in sitting dumbly in their busy offices and allowing the sentimental agitators to fill people with the thought that they are robbers instead of the hard headed philanthropists that most of them are."—The Protectionist.

A SPEECH WITH THE RIGHT RING.

Ohio, the fairest forty thousand square miles on the globe, an empire in brain and brawn, true as steel, has stood four-square to duty in every great emergency. I have faith to believe that a decided majority of her eleven hundred thousand voters cannot be swerved from the well beaten path we so long have trod. Battles are won by charging columns.

Marching straight to the front, turn neither to the right or to the left, strong in our convictions, upholding the principles evolved from and resting upon the truth, let us mightily strive to deserve the confidence of the great electorate of Ohio by conducting a campaign of education. The issues are not complex or new. The splendid story of National progress has been written by the Republican party and there can be no turning backward. Without temporizing, compromising or halting, our duty lies in being true to the highest and best interests of the Republic and defending the rights of the people against all comers; from foes within or without the lines of the party to which we owe fealty and patriotic service.

Mr. Chairman and gentleman of the Central and Executive committees, I am ready for the duty of the hour. I count myself happy, Providence permitting, that I am to have some part in this most important campaign with you, and under the leadership, let me repeat, of Ohio's great son, the Honorable William Howard Taft. I shall be found battling for what I esteem the right and supremacy of Republican principles in both the Nation and the state.—From General Brown's speech of acceptance.

BASE BALL AND HIGH BALL.

Louisville Times.

They were out at the local ballyard Monday and her escort, who was also her intended, was delighted to find how quickly she grasped the points of the game. She got on so well that he ventured a light witticism on the subject.

"Baseball reminds me of the household," he remarked, "there's the plate, the fowls, the flies."

"And it reminds me of marriage," she interrupted; "first the diamond when they are engaged, then the struggles and the hits, then the men going out and finally the difficulty they have."

And he sat and thought.

STORY OF DECATUR BATTLE

Interesting Account Is Related of Hot Time at That Important Stronghold in Alabama.

In the National Tribune of May 21 Sergeant Ashley V. Newton, Co. D, 3d Mich., in "Colored Troops at Decatur," says that at Nashville his regiment got a rush order to proceed to Decatur to reinforce General Milroy, who was being closely pressed by Forrest. General Milroy was not at Decatur; neither was Forrest, writes Will A. McTeer, adjutant, 3d Tenn. Cav., and acting assistant adjutant general, First Brigade, Fourth Division, Cavalry Corps, Maryville, Tenn., in the National Tribune. Gen. Robert S. Granger was in command of the military district of north Alabama, with headquarters at Decatur and Huntsville. Col. C. C. Doolittle, of the 15th Mich., was in command of the post at Decatur.

Comrade Newton says: "We found the bridge burned, but General Milroy had provided for our coming by erecting a pontoon bridge."

"Our Cavalry Brigade reported to General Granger for duty, arriving at Decatur July 10, 1864, and the bridge was destroyed before that time, and the pontoon was erected then, and appeared as if it had been there for months before. It appears that it was placed there by General Sherman when on his way from Memphis to Chattanooga."

Further, Comrade Newton says: "The Confederates seeing us, emphasized their objection by rushing a six-piece battery down to the bank of the river within easy range of the bridge, and they would have mixed things up very seriously for the 3d Mich. but for the timely intervention of two companies of colored troops that were sent by General Milroy to distract their attention in another direction."

I was acting assistant adjutant general of the Cavalry Brigade and on the line of battle. Hood (not Forrest) attacked us, October 28, 1864.

In General Granger's report to General Thomas he fixes his whole force at Decatur at 1,750, and with the 29th Mich. added, which had just arrived, and 350 absent on patrol duty, there were only 2,000 men to defend Decatur. Every available man was placed out on the line, and then we could not reach around more than half way in front of our works. The only reason that the first day's fighting was not one of the greatest battles of the war was because there were not men enough to make it so.

There were no colored troops there that day, but in the night we were reinforced by the 14th U. S. Colored Inf., commanded by Col. (afterwards General) J. T. Morgan.

The 3d and 29th Mich. reinforced us while engaged in the hottest part on the first afternoon. I remember distinctly their coming, and as they went out on the line the appearance of the bright, new uniforms was in decided contrast to our own worn and dingy clothing.

The Confederates were using a battery at a lively rate with deadly effect, but it was nearly a mile from the river and not in range of the bridge at all. On the 27th the enemy threw up some pits on the bank of the river, about a mile above Decatur and nearly a half mile from where the battery was first used by them on the first day. On the morning of the 28th a detachment from the 18th Mich. and 102d Ohio (according to my journal 47 men) made their way down the river, succeeded in flanking the Confederate rifle pits, made a gallant charge from their rear, in which a number of men were killed and wounded, and brought in 120 prisoners.

I stood on the upper porch of the Decatur hotel when Colonel Morgan came in front with the 14th regiment of colored troops (not two companies), and they piled their knapsacks, leaving one man to the company as guards. I noticed Colonel Morgan holding in his hand a small hatchet, and also that a number of the officers had hatchets. They started out in the open field, marching in excellent order to within rifle range of the Confederates, when they fired a volley, then raised a yell and charged.

The affair did not last much more than 20 minutes, but the work was bloody. They drove the Confederates from their support with the bayonet. The guns were spiked, and the colored boys had to fall down along the water's edge under the bank of the river, while the enemy ran along above them and shot down on them.

In his report of this charge, General Granger says: "We lost 40 killed and wounded," and up to that time our loss amounted to 80.

In the forenoon of October 29 the enemy began to withdraw, and I was at the place where this battery had stood, and it was a place of blood without a doubt. Prior to this charge Capt. Albert F. Beach, Battery A, 1st Tenn., had taken two sections of his guns up on the north side of the river, opposite the Confederate battery, and they fought an artillery duel across the river, and ended in blowing up two sections, which killed quite a number of the enemy.

THE PRAISE THAT COMES FROM THANKFUL MAYSVILLE PEOPLE

One kidney remedy has known merit. Maysville people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Maysville testimony proves it reliable.

Frederick Dressel, 1233 East Second street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Since I used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1903, I have not had kidney trouble. All that I said at that time praising this remedy still holds good. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and annoyance from my kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and I had a severe pain across the small of my back which interfered with my duties. When a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at the Wood & Son's Drug Store. They gave me prompt relief and I know that they are an excellent remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound in your ears, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

It was alleged that the picture was too immoral to be shown and complaint was made by several women.

WARNING TO HUNTERS

Fool With a Gun Must Take Out a License

Danville Messenger.

Hunters are well aware of the new law requiring them to have a license, but few remember the clause requiring that this document must be kept in the pocket while hunting. This seems a little unreasonable, but the framers of the new law desired to get the best results and inserted this provision.

In a certain field not ten thousand miles from Danville, this week, several sportsmen were hunting doves. The game warden came upon them and demanded the papers. Some had them, some did not. Of course they had forgotten the law and left the papers in town.

The Messenger will not call names, but it's safe to say that the fines imposed will serve as a gentle reminder to take the license as well as the gun when going hunting.

THE HAAG CIRCUS

"Good, Clean Show" Say Critics—Maysville, September 24th

Despite the threatening weather many hundreds witnessed the Haag Show parade this morning and a tent full of pleased patrons testified their approval of what proved to be one of the best real circus performances witnessed here in several years. The program included many excellent acts, seven or eight of them among the best seen here; in fact the best in the business, as the manager announced. The show is conducted evidently by real business men, who do not permit gambling in any form and not an oath or intemperate remark was heard on the ground. The parade was the finest for its size that has been seen here. On the whole it is a good, clean, clever show, and those who saw the performance this afternoon will join the hope that the Haag Shows will come again.

There will be another performance tonight, doors opening at 7 o'clock, performance at 8. —Winston-Salem, (N. C.) Daily Sentinel. At Maysville September 24th.

"It thirsts and burns for distinction; and, if possible, it will have it. Is it unreasonable, then, to expect that some men, possessed of the loftiest genius, coupled with ambition sufficient to push to the utmost stretch, will at some time spring up among us? And when such a one does, it will require the people to be united with each other, attached to the government and laws, and generally intelligent, to successfully frustrate his design."

"Distinction will be his paramount object, and although he would as willingly acquire it by doing good as harm, yet nothing left in the way of building up he would sit down boldly to the task of pulling down. Here, then, is a probable case, highly dangerous."—From Mr. Lincoln's Speech Before the Young Men's Lyceum, Springfield, Ill.

—From the Omaha Daily Bee, March 19, 1912.

CHILDREN SHOULD NOT GO TO SCHOOL TOO SOON

Professor of Education at State University Says Lasting Harm May Be Wrought By Rushing Things

MAKES THEM STALE VERY EARLY IN LIFE

Development So Great After They Pass Eight and Nine Years Old That They More Than Make Up For Time

home and engage in such physical and mental exercises as will bring a natural development at this period of the child's life. It is the experience of many educators that children who enter school at the age of eight or nine show far greater capacity and receive their adjustments more rapidly during the next three or four years than children of the same age who enter school at 5 or 6 years of age.

"During the period of a child's life from the ages of 9 to 13, he is making the necessary adjustments. It is the period of habit formation. The child should be held to rigid discipline at this time, in the school as well as in the home. To illustrate what I mean by accessory adjustments and habit formation, I may say that all great musicians have mastered to a great extent the technique of their instruments during this period. It is a rare instance, indeed, if a child begins to study the violin later than 14 years of age, that a high degree of mastery of technique is attained."

"The adolescent period of childhood bears a wonderful analogy to the dark ages. In fact, the whole period of childhood development seems to be analogous to Argian civilization. For example, the period from birth to 9 years of age corresponds to Grecian life, and from 9 to 14, to Roman civilization. These periods are followed by the dark ages, the adolescent life of the child. During the first few years of this period all training and education and culture seem hopelessly overwhelmed. The dominant characteristics at this time are rapid physical growth, a disregard of all discipline and restraint, a love of adventure, strong tendencies to vandalism, and everything else that seemed to a characteristic of the ancient Teutons that overran and eclipsed the civilization of Rome."

"The mother and father sometimes absolutely despair of the boy. Every trace of training seems hopelessly obliterated. But just as the civilization of the South finally overcame the barbarism of the North in the Teutons, so does the education that the child has received during his earlier years finally assert itself, and he emerges from this period vigorous and strong, and with a capacity the parents had not dreamed of before. When the renaissance comes, and the boy begins to awaken to the new life, the mother is often astonished at the scrupulous care he takes of his person and his appearance."

"Two years ago he was a savage, and the only way to get him to clean up was to lock him up in the bath room and refuse to let him out until his bath was completed. Now he is never quite satisfied that his ears and neck are clean enough, or that his shoes have received that degree of polish that will receive favor in the eyes of his sweetheart, and the culture of Greece and the discipline of Rome have blossomed again."

Ohio State Fair Sets New High Water Mark

The world applauds the winner and the record-breaker. The Ohio State Fair is both. By leaps and bounds it grows. In popularity it glides. In attendance it went beyond expectations. In quantity and quality of exhibits it surpassed all predecessors. The present grounds are no longer adequate. Over 500 cars were used in bringing exhibits. The President and the private citizen touched elbows within its gates.

Over 6,000 pounds of silver were paid in admission.

Receipts from all sources total $20,000 more than ever before. Good humor prevailed. Everybody was satisfied. The man in the moon worked nights. Every department was complete. The vast crowds were orderly. Every officer was on duty at the proper time and place. Unpleasant incidents did not happen. Words of praise were heard on every side.

The State Fair advertising brought larger crowds to Columbus than ever before. There was no confusion. The fair started on time. Every detail of the program was kept to the minute.

Doing away with the free-pass curse has won respect and support. An increase of over 20 per cent. in both attendance and exhibits is the story. Demands for exhibit space next year have already been made. This is a new indication of the growth and success of Ohio's big exposition.

Public SALE

Saturday, Sept. 28,

1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., as Agent for the heirs of Rachel J. Chaslor and Isaac F. Chaslor, I will sell the

FARM

Consisting of About 137 Acres!

Said farm lies on the South of Millersburg, about one-half mile from town on the east side of the Maysville and Lexington turnpike; the L. & N. R. R. running along west side. This is one of the most desirable farms in the county. It has on it a 3-story brick house, with new roof, and is in good condition; a tobacco barn and warehouse, with plank floor and good tobacco screw; stable, corn crib, buggy house, chicken house, smoke house and splendid ice house, three cellars; also tenement house, two cabins, and the best spring in the county, and two other fields with never-failing water. This farm is well fenced, and is in a good neighborhood as anyone could wish, and can all be plowed. There is about 35 acres in corn and the rest in grass. Anyone wishing a home will make a great mistake if they don't attend this sale, as there is no more beautiful situation on the Maysville and Lexington turnpike, and is in one-half mile of two of the best schools in the state, both male and female colleges, and only 7 miles from Paris. It will be sold as a whole, or divided to suit purchasers. Terms made known on day of sale.

J. C. JEFFERSON,
Agent for Heirs.

At the same time and place, as Administrator of Isaac F. Chaslor, deceased, I will offer for sale on the premises a large lot of farming machinery, stock, household goods, etc.

Do you see how the square cross-rod at top of head and foot beautifully fits this bed? Imagine this design with round tubing in these positions. Would not the result be "ordinary" and monotonous? It is just such details of clever and artistic designing that have made our steel beds so popular. And the very large corner posts with brass caps all combine to make this an unusually artistic bed.

Moreover this bed is as good as it looks. Because it is made of drawn steel tubing, very light in weight—extremely strong.

A child can move this bed with the greatest ease. Come in and see this bed. Then you will realize how good it is.
